

Petar Nastasić
Professor, MD, PhD

Serbia

He is neuropsychiatrist, family therapist, Doctor of Medical Science (Ph.D.), Professor at University of Belgrade. Born on 1947, has completed School of Medicine at University of Belgrade. He obtained doctoral degree with a thesis Transgenerational Transmission and Genogram: Implication for diagnosis and family treatment (1987). He was employed at the Institute for Mental Health Belgrade from 1980 to 2008. After completion of neuropsychiatry specialization he coordinated multiple family groups for family therapy of alcoholic youth and women according to the systemic concept. Attends and completed sub-specialization (1984-1988) receiving Diploma in Marital and Family Therapy according to the Program of Institute for Family Therapy, London and Tavistock Clinic, London (coordinators Rosemary Whiffen and Justin Schlicht). He was a Chief of Department of Alcoholism (1993-2001) and Director of the Clinic for Addictions (2001-2008) at the Institute for Mental Health Belgrade. He has been engaged in educational activities since 1994 when he became mentor for neuropsychiatry specialization, and since 1997 he is lecturer and supervisor at the sub-specialization course in systemic family therapy in Institute for Mental Health Belgrade. Since 2004 he is an Associate Professor at the Belgrade University, School of Political Science, for Social work with groups, counseling and psychotherapy, addictions and supervision in Social Work. Since 2012 he is an Associate Professor at the University "Singidunum" in Belgrade. He served a numerous associations and projects: Vice-President of Yugoslavian Association of Psychiatric Institutions (YUKO), Vice-President and President of Section for Addictions of Serbian Medical Society, member of Expert group for development and health of youth in Ministry of Health of Republic of Serbia, member of Work group for politics and coordination within CIDA project „Balkan Youth Health Prevention“, member of Thematic group for health in National commission for development of Strategy for Ministry of Youth and Sport of Republic of Serbia, and current President of National expert commission in Ministry of Health for prevention of alcoholism.

He published or presented over 180 scientific papers, 11 chapters in various books and is author of 4 books (Alcoholism and Transgenerational Transmission, Do Not Let the Drugs Get You Out of the Game, Ecosystemic Approach to Alcoholism and Addictions in Adolescence). He has participated in several significant research projects and was engaged on the project „Advancing Social Welfare for Vulnerable Groups of Children and Their Families“ (Belgrade University, School of political science and UNICEF). He is married and has one son.